Four American Players Win on English Courts

Johnston, Williams, Tilden and Garland Captures Tennis Matches at Wimbledon.

Copyright, 1920, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York Evening World.)

LONDON, June 22.—The curtain at Wimbledon and the world's championship tennis tournament was rung up on William M. Johnston and J. M. Flavelle, and it was a tribute to the spreading fame of our American champion and his popularity that it attracted the best first day attendance in the life of this historic meeting. Immediately all four Americans won in the first round.

Johnston did all that was needed with consummate ease, as his opponent, once very good, is now past his prime.

Johnston, because he was never extended, indulged at times in an easy way, but he was never slack enough to disappoint the crowd, and the all-around elegance of his game suggested he was giving an object lesson. He won by a score of 6-2, 6-4, 6-2. It rained torrents on Sunday and it was a tribute to the famous Wimbledon tarpaulin, which goes upon pulleys as protection in wet weather, that the centre court was in such fine condition as to justify Johnston playing in "rubbers."

R. Norris Williams had a softer court for his match, in which he easily conquered N. Field, a back-marker in some of our tournaments, at 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

It was an improved display on the part of Williams, but doubtless we shall see him better still when at length he has a first class court to play on. His style is admirable but at present his game needs screwing up and a restoration of the pre-war bite that impressed us so much.

Garland was below his form and on Wimbledon's premier court, where he did so finely last year he was expected to be in happier mood. He was put to the severest test of the day in opposing our youngest international player, O. G. Turnbull, who is hardly up to our best international standard.

On comparative form of last year Garland would have won in a canter, but yesterday he dropped the second set, his ground strokes, for him, being unusually soft.

Turnbull, a heavy man, weighing fully 200 pounds, has seldom played better or shown such activity. This activity suggested that the Englishman would wear himself down, but it was improved play that enabled Garland to win at 7-5, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

The American lost the first three games in the opening set but won the next two. Then Garland faltered and, although he studiously tried to place his drives on the line, he frequently missed fire. He was presented with some aces by Turnbull, but after being in arrears at 2-5 he put a little more ginger into his game, his drives being more incisive and of lower trajectory.

He received sporting applause on making it five-all and gradually seemed to be discovering his man. Breaking through service, Garland led for the first time at 6-5, and he won the set at 7-5 with some extremely clever placing shots.

Garland put more pace on the ball as the second set opened and soon had a lead of 3-1 on games, but Turnbull stuck to his task doggedly. With the score 5-4 on games and 40-15 on points against him, and Garland four times within a point of the set, the Englishman, by steady play and several brilliant recoveries, not only won the game but eventually the set at 8-6.

The crowd was aroused to high enthusiasm by the hard hitting and clever playing of both men.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed with Sulphur it Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it assumes its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.—Advt.

Hair Kept Beautifully Wavy, Indoors or Out!

If you will apply a little Liquid, anmerine before doing up your hair it will have a prettier wave and curl than probably it has ever had. The waviness will look perfectly natural and the hair will be sleek and glossy like plush. It will remain in curl the longest time, regardless of heat, wind or moisture, and you won't have to be continually fussing with loose strands or flying ends. Liquid anmerine is, of course, entirely harmless. It leaves no sticky, greasy or streaky trace. It is also an excellent dressing for the hair, keeping it delightfully soft and silky. A few ounces from your druggist will last for weeks. It is best applied with a clean tooth brush, drawing this down the full length of the hair.—Advt.
